IN THE INTEREST OF HARMONY

By Perry Newberry

An effort has been made to effect a compromise in the election contest for trustee of Sunset School, and has failed. Partisans of the candidacy of E. H. Ewig last weeek sought to bring about an harmonious solution of the factional battle, and suggested a meeting of a few from each group to consider the withdrawal of both candidates and the selection of one upon whom all might unite.

I first made the proposal to a group consisting of Mrs. Vera Peck Millis, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Levinson, Mr. and Mrs. Hurd Comstock, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Shand, Mrs. Hester Schoeninger, Mrs. Mary Marble, Willard Wheeler and John Neikirk, called to hear my suggestion at the home of the Shands. I said that I believed that it was possible to avoid the ill effects of an election contest that, no matter how it turned out at the polls, would react to the disadvantage of the school, a compromise between the factions should be attempted.

In making the suggestion, I proposed as a possibly acceptable candidate to both sides, Hal Garrott. I had been told by leaders of Mrs. Rendtorff's candidacy, that prior to her acceptance, Mr. Garrott would have received their support.

My proposition was unanimously accepted by the meeting, and was at once put up to Mr. Ewig, who sanctioned it. I was asked to telephone Mrs. Rendtorff and ask if she would call a meeting of some of her people to confer with a like number of Mr. Ewig's friends.

Mrs. Rendtorff quite properly asked for time to consider the matter and consult with her friends. Although I had suggested the name of Mr. Garrott to her as a possible compromise candidate, I explained that his selection was not a requisite of such a meeting, and that some other candidate, acceptable to both sides, might be satisfactorily chosen. The attempt to avoid a bitter political battle around the school was the main thing; the candidate was secondary.

The next day Mrs. Rendtorff telephoned me that she had talked with some of her supporters, and they considered any such meeting as I had proposed as inadvisable. Mrs. Rendtorff stated that she had found none of them favoring a compromise solution of the problem, and unless she were asked to withdraw her candidacy by the people who had urged her into the contest —just as Mr. Ewig had accepted the direction of his political friends and supporters— she must remain a candidate. She would willingly retire in the interest of harmony if she could feel that her supporters agreed to such action.

It would seem that there is still hope for some agreement that will prevent this bitterness in a school election. It is a time for hands to be outstretched in friendly gestures, not clinched into fists.

Puppet Theater For Children Formed At Girl Scout House

Inauguration of a system in creative dramatics that will develop the natural ability of local children was underway this week at the Girl Scout House where the Carmel Marionette theatre has been established.

Under the direction of Miss Evelyn Pattison, marionette performances will be given for children every Saturday afternoon. Following each weekly show, the youngsters will be taken back of the marionette stage and given every opportunity to learn to work the puppets.

Establishment of the theatre will be primarily a Girl Scout's activity. Later on, as the children indicate interest, the theatre may develop into a creative dramatic showhouse.

Miss Pattison who has charge of the theatre, has been connected with marionette shows in various parts of the country and has an outstanding reputation in that line of work. She formerly taught art at the College of Puget Sound.

"Holiday" Called On Selection Of Site For Local Postoffice

A probable delay of a week before an official announcement is made of the selection of the site of the Carmel postoffice loomed this week as the result of changes caused in the treasury department by the new administration.

According to word received here yesterday, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin must appoint an assistant secretary of construction before the definite site selection is made. The appointment is expected to be made within the next seven days and official word on where the site will be located will be telegraphed to Postmaster William Overstreet.

From unofficial sources, the Pine Cone learned this week that the postoffice will undoubtedly be constructed at the corner of Ocean avenue and Junipero street where the horse stables are located. It is understood that the site has been recommended to the government by George Rolfe, postal inspector who made a survey of Carmel's needs last month.

Postmaster Overstreet refused to either confirm or deny this information. He said that as far as he knew no definite announcement of any kind had so far been made to him.

The other site that may be selected is located on Dolores street and Ninth on the edge of the business and residential district.

Shed A Tear, Ring The Bell! Gus' Mighty Horse Vanishes

Never again will Gus, the village's police chief, ride his mighty horse.

The black mare upon which he chased criminals and controlled traffic for the past seven years, was stolen by modern rustlers from Charles Van Riper's ranch in Carmel valley sometime last week.

Beauty, as the colorful horse was known, was placed by Gus in pasture last summer when the city council carrying out a general economy policy, cut the salaries of all city employees including that of the police chief.

Because he said he could not feed his family and his horse, Gus dismounted from the nag, and took to pounding the sidewalks on foot instead. Merchants, artists and writers of the village, shortly afterwards, presented to the city council a petition bearing some 200 signatures asking that Gus be ordered to continue his equestrian activities.

Gus demured, however, claiming that he had no time to ride his horse. After all, he told Mayor John Catlin, an automobile was quicker to travel around the village. And anyway, this was the age of technocracy and progress!

Still the elite of the village protested. Gus on his horse was part of the Carmel atmosphere. Visitors coming to the town expected to see his stalwart figure on his handsome black mare.

And now Gus' chances of ever riding on horseback have apparently vanished permanently. The mighty nag has disappeared!

Mrs. Louise Achilles has returned to Carmel after a two year trip abroad. She has taken a house and intends to remain indefinitely.

Ride 'Em Cowboy! Men Jailed For Rustling Cattle

Carmel's group of cowboy writers were this week polishing their spurs and cleaning their barking guns as Monterey county authorities were investigating the revival of cattle and "hoss rustling" in Carmel valley.

Sheriff Carl H. Abbott and his posse of mighty deputies have already rounded up in the county corral at Salinas, Tom Romero, Frank Hutchinson and Alex Livingston, all of Seaside, and John Pray, Monterey. The four men face charges of cattle rustling.

The arrest of another group of four men is anticipated as the result of information given out by the prisoners in custody.

Word of the cattle rustling was given out last week when Mrs. M. B. Mason reported that a yearling calf owned by her had been stolen and then butchered. Investigation of the theft by authorities resulted in the discovery of portions of the carcass in homes of the men so far arrested.

For some months past, cattle have been taken all through the valley region and also in the Big Sur section.

Sunshine Noses Out Reading During Month

When the sun shines a young man's fancy turns to other things besides reading books.

At least so it appears from the monthly report of the Carmel Library issued by Miss Hortense Berry, the librarian. During the month of February only 6791 books were loaned out—a considerable drop when compared with the past few months. Only nine temporary cards were taken, while 115 permanent residents registered, making a total of 2003.

Missing Carmel Woman Found In Arizona After Long Hunt

Mrs. Catherine Bell, 32-year-old Carmel resident who has been missing here since February 12 was located yesterday at Phoenix, Arizona and is scheduled to return here within the next few days.

Word that she was safe and "surprised at the search" was received by Postmaster William Overstreet, who in turn informed Carmel police and county authorities. Chief of Police August Englund said he would not press the investigation any further.

"We have been searching for Mrs. Bell because we believed that she might have met with foul play," Chief Englund explained. "As long as she is safe and sound there is no further excuse for further investigation."

Scouts Participate In Overnight Camp Trip

Some 18 members of the Carmel Boy Scout troop participated last week-end in the first of a long series of overnight camping trips planned for this year. The nights are spent at Cathedral Pines, the Boy Scout Camp, ten miles south of here.

In addition to hiking and exploring the nearby country, the boys also passed many tests in Scoutcraft. Henry Bauernschmidt, assistant scoutmaster, was in charge of the outing, although Scoutmaster John Neikirk was also present.

Among the boys who took in the trip were Earl Dorrance, Markham Johnson, Bud Brownell, Bob Rand, Ralph Lee, Harrison Foster, Tom Phillips, Freer Gottfried, Joe Stewart, Albert Petty, Ralph Johonnot, Paul Nye, Lewis Holtzhauer, Bob Belo and Allen Lane.

May Build Sidewalks

At a meeting of the Carmel Employment Commission on Tuesday, March 14, the following motion was passed: That whenever practicable, the Commission furnish the labor needed for the construction of sidewalks on the city streets, provided that the owners of the adjoining property in an entire block supply the necessary materials.

Limitations of this offer will be the urgency of other projects and the type of workers available at any given time.

The New Chevrolet Is Now On Display

The new Chevrolet standard six, which is a smaller replica of the larger car in every respect, but at a much lower price, is now being shown at the Miller Motor Company in Carmel, and at the Snider Chevrolet Company in Monterey.

The new cars are big full sized automobiles built to conform to every ideal of Chevrolet performance, dependability, and economy.

The styling is modern, and streamlining spacious, and features even the new Fisher no draft ventilation. The windshields have safety glass, the transmission has a clashless shift, and silent second gear. It gives greater gas mileage, uses less oil, and in every respect is a tribute to the name of Chevrolet and General Motors.

Everyone is cordially invited to come and ride in the new cars today.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilson of Berkeley have just returned to Berkeley after a visit in their Carmel studio.

Red Cross Seeks $500 Quota For Stricken Area

Carmel residents were this week quickly coming to the aid of the stricken southern California area in bringing relief to the hundreds that were injured and the thousands that are homeless from the earthquake.

In connection with a campaign for relief funds that is being conducted throughout the state and nation, the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross, is now in the midst of raising a quota of $500.

Tables with volunteer workers accepting contributions have been established in front of the Bank of Carmel and at the postoffice. Donations are also being received at Staniford's drug store.

At a meeting of the local chapter held Tuesday, Mrs. D. J. Johnson was appointed chairman of the drive. Both Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Robert Stanton, head of the local chapter are urging residents to help fill the necessary quota of $500.

Cast Named For New Community Play

A comedy and a fast-moving mystery play is "Ladies of the Jury," the next Carmel Player's production. Miss Helen Ware, assisted in the directing by her husband, Frederic Burt, has gathered an interesting cast—some of them veterans of the Community playhouse, others making their "maiden" appearance. Galt Bell will play the part of Mr. Dale, attorney for the defense, Chester Shepherd will be seen in the role of Judge Fish, Sybil Leonard is cast as Mrs. Gordon, and Gordon Knoles will play Prosecutor Van Stye. Others taking part are: Ranald Cockburn, Hildreth Masten, Holly Smith, Marian Todd, John Stanley, Larry Grenier, Virginia Rockwell, Elizabeth Sampson, Bonnie Cockburn, Catherine Van Dyck, Fern Hyde, Richard CharMasten, Bert Bruno, Sam Ethridge, Charlie Sayres, Ross Cowen, W. B. Williams, and Ed Files.

"Ladies of the Jury" will be presented the nights of March 30, March 31 and April 1. Tickets will be on sale at Staniford's drug store.

Mum's The Word! Be Careful Or Be Sorry

District Attorney Harry L. Noland has issued a sharp warning to the people of the county who are loose-tongued in criticism of the banks, and promises to prosecute vigorously anyone who violates the law which provides: "Any person who wilfully and knowingly makes, circulates or transmits to another or others any statement or rumor, written, printed or by word of mouth, which is untrue in facts and is directly or by inference derogatory to the financial condition, or affects the solvency or financial standing of any bank doing business in this state, or who knowingly counsels, aids, procures or induces another to start, transmit or circulate any such statement or rumor, is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both."

Local Architects To Approve Highway Plans

A committee of three local architects was appointed at a meeting Tuesday night of the Monterey Society of Architects to pass on all plans for the improvements of the highway. The society met with a representative of the county planning commission and Tom Work of the State Highway Commission. The committee of architects is composed of Guy Koepp, C. J. Ryland, and Milton Latham.

Noted Lecturer To Be Heard Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow night, the Denny-Watrous Gallery will present Frederic L. Paxson, Ph. D., of the University of California, in a talk on "Our President-the New Congress-the Situation-Our Government."

Advance notice of such a talk can only to let people know the date of the event. Interest already is. There is none who has not a high pitch of interest and responsibility in what is happening today in what the President elected by a majority vote of all the people is going to do, in what the banks and Wall Street and financiers are going to do, in what our government really is. The only thing necessary is that the speaker of the moment should be one of authority and accurate knowledge.

This Dr. Paxson is and has. He is a historian of note in our country. He has lectured and given courses in a number of Eastern universities, done research work under the Carnegie Institute in the British archives, is the author of several books on history. His "Last American Frontier" took the Pulitzer prize for the best work on American history in 1924. Other books of his include a work on the Civil War and a "Recent History of the United States."

At the close of Dr. Paxson's talk there will be an open forum.

Perry Dilly's Puppets Will Show Here Soon

The Perry Dilly puppets, well known to Carmel, with Grace Wickham Odhner, formerly of Carmel, as one of its puppeteers, will give a performance of "Alice in Wonderland" at the Sunset School auditorium on Friday morning, March 24, at 10:55. To the children, the price of admission will be fifteen cents, and 25 cents for adults.

The exhibit of the paintings of John O'Shea now on at the Denny Watrous gallery will be continued on into April.

Famous Musicians Listen To Carmel Orchestral Concert

By Hal Garrott

The Monterey Peninsula Orchestra (less than nine months old) gave its first public concert Saturday night in Sunset Auditorium before one of the most distinguished audiences ever assembled in the village. Among the scores of musical celebrities were: Issay Dubrowen, conductor of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, recent guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic; Gunnar Johannsen, famous Danish world-pianist; Susie Pipes, originator of the Neah-Kah-Nie String Quartet, its first violin, business director and patron, Adele Marcus, whose piano recitals in Paris, London, (Carmel), and New York received critical acclaim; William Blinder, concert meister of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra; Frank Wickman; Mrs. Marcus Koshland, the San Francisco art patron. Carmel contributed a living roster of Who's Who in America (as well as in Carmel).

"They played very good!" exclaimed Issay Dubrowen. "I intend to live in Carmel," confessed Gunnar Johannsen. "I would like to compose here, and"—(in answer to my question)—"I'd be delighted to play with so excellent an amateur body as the Monterey Peninsula Orchestra—" and so on. It would be easy to fill this column with similarly appreciative comments.

And the performance really was first class, well nigh miraculous when you consider the orchestra is made up of boys and girls and men and women of all ages and degrees of musical gift and experience. We must give Michel Penha credit for fusing this heterogenous material into an artistic unit.

In spite of its difficulty the Mozart Serenade for strings (four movements) progressed in a smooth, nicely phrased, flow of contrasting voices. The Handel B Minor Concerto for Viola and Orchestra, presenting Abraham Weiss as soloist, proved one of the evening's most appealing numbers. The Weiss viola tone is the most eloquent I've heard, and his musicianship equals the poetic appeal of his big violin. The orchestral accompaniment, never obtruding, followed the soloist as closely as his shadow with sympathetic support. A favorite with local music fans, Weiss was recalled again and again.

Ralph Linsley's performance of the Beethoven C Major Concerto for Piano and Orchestra brought down the house. After four recalls the audience reluctantly permitted the program to proceed, though they'd gladly have listened to Linsley all over again. This delightful pianist possesses a simple beauty of tone, a clear, immaculate technic, free from mannerism or any suggestion of ostentation. His performance reminds us of the limpid clarity of a brooklet, or the piano touch of a Raphael Joseffy.

After such playing many of us feared the orchestra was facing an anti-climax in its final number. But such was not the case. In a spirited performance of Beethoven's Egmont Overture, the Monterey Peninsula Orchestra rose to the high spot of the evening, making the concert incontestably its own. There was richness and volume in the violins, colorful contrast between string and wind choir, effective shading, expertly built crescendoes and diminuendoes, and a dramatic interpretation that told the tragic story behind the music.

This concert scores a high mark in the musical history of Carmel, and promises brilliant achievement for the coming season. Meanwhile the orchestra will gather in the Denny-Watrous Gallery a week from Sunday night to rehearse under the baton of assistant conductor Carol Weston.

Gilbert's Latest Paintings Much Praised at Del Monte

By Josephine Mildred Blanch

The refreshing qualities of simplicity and sincerity are brought constantly to mind in reviewing the group of recent paintings by Arthur Hill Gilbert—composing his exhibition now in progress at Del Monte Art Gallery. So free is he from technical sophistication, isms, forced theories and all pretenses that one can truthfully say of him that he is an individualist seeking the truth of things and portraying it as he himself sees it. Certain it is that he has taken a firm stand in the ranks of the present generation of American painters whose ideals are in keeping with their heritage and are wholely under the influence of their native environment. Believing that a man's personal vision is the most important factor in his Art expression, Gilbert fosters this growing spirit of independence, confident in the future of his own concentrated efforts. With the exception of an early training in the Chicago Institute of Art and later going twice to Europe where he had contact with the Galleries and painting in the various places that most attracted him, his whole time has been given to studying the landscape of California and for the past several years he has lived on the Monterey Peninsula feeling that no more beautiful or satisfying locality could be found for a painter whose choice of all subjects was the charm of the out-of-doors.

Here in the midst of the beauty surrounding him he has found inspiring motifs for his present showing at Del Monte. Beauty that is everywhere around us and with us continually, but which we are perhaps too familiar with to appreciate until someone with an artist mind and a longing for expression awakens us. This Gilbert does in his interpretations of spreading oaks casting purple shadows on meadows turned bronze by mid-summer suns; wide open skies of moving gray clouds spent of their fullness in showers upon the waiting earth, over which is seen the first tender green of Spring. In contrast, sunshine everywhere; the sparkle of white far-reaching sand-dunes leading in never-ending lines and curves to a blue, blue sea—bluer even than the wide sky over-head, across which white clouds are drifting. Sentinel cypresses standing stark from their combat of years with winds and tides, still guarding the fortress of rocky coastline.

The gold and bronze of sycamores standing tall and slender from the river bottom, their golden branches forming lacey patterns against a hill-slope rising from the valley; an old deserted barn emptied of its grain and lying useless indeed among the fallow fields until the beauty of its age-softened colorings caught the fancy of a passing artist.

In this evenly balanced group of pictures which Gilbert offers, one is impressed with the delibera-tion with which he has developed each theme. Beneath the surface-charm of color values and form there is a seriousness of motive, an analytical trend of thought. Realistic portrayal has given place to creative impulse. He is interpretive, at the same time adhering closely to Nature's truths with an understanding which comes only with years of experience and study. The collection altogether is most refreshing and stimulating, one to be appreciated both by layman and artist.

Carmel Resident Named Badminton President

Several hundred entrants are expected in the first annual tournament of the California State Badminton association, to be held in Monterey April 15 and 16, according to newly elected president, Paul Whitman. Probably no other sport is enjoying such growth in favor as the tricky net game.

Badminton fans from all sections of the state attended the initial meeting of the association at the Old Monterey Polo Club when by-laws and a constitution were adopted and officers elected. Other officers besides Whitman elected were George McCook, Pasadena, first vice-president; Emile de Surville, San Francisco, second vice-president; Leslie Nichols, Palo Alto, secretary-treasurer; and Roland Roberts, Del Monte tennis professional, chairman of the tournament committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Condon spent the week-end at Los Gatos where they were visiting relatives.

Eavesdropping On The Air

Carmel Amateur Radio Station Operated By Col. Clair Foster Plays Role In World-Wide Dramatic Events

In the early morning when most of Carmel is sound asleep, Col. Clair Foster sits in his Dolores street home and talks his way around the world.

One minute he is gossiping with South Africa and in another minute, he is discussing the far east warfare with Peiping. To Col. Foster the whole thing is just a hobby—yet he has a reputation as one of the outstanding radio amateurs in the country.

His powerful Carmel station, W6HM, has led stricken ships to safety; has brought in reassuring messages to anxious American residents who believed their relatives dead in some far corner of the world; he has been able to establish contact with areas that thru some catastrophe were entirely out of communication with the outside world and he has participated in dozens of varied, dramatic events—all as merely part of a day's work.

At the present time, Col. Foster's Carmel station is bringing in on the average of five to ten messages daily out of Peiping. Probably the most accurate and definite stories coming out of war conditions in the far east are being received right here—for it is difficult to censor the air.

Many residents in China are keeping constantly in touch with relatives in America through messages sent by a Peiping amateur and received by Col. Foster.

But that's just one of the many free services that a radio amateur provides. Some time ago, Count Felix von Luckner, the German war hero, was coming to America for a lecture tour in his own ship. Near the Panama Canal, the ship ran into a terrific storm which ruined the commerical radio set.

The radio operator fortunately happened to have an amateur set aboard and he immediately began to contact someone on the continent. His signal was received by Col. Foster, who for the next two weeks was the only medium of communication which von Luckner's ship had with the world.

One of the most amazing stories which Col. Foster tells occurred some years ago when he was the first to speak around the world and broke the record by contacting Africa. A short time later, a radio amateur in Bangkok, Siam, asked Col. Foster to introduce him over the air to the amateur in Africa.

"I'll be glad to," came Col. Foster's reply. "Meet me on the same wave length tomorrow morning."

Next morning around 4 o'clock, Col. Foster contacted his amateur friend in Africa.

"My friend in Siam wants to meet you," Col. Foster informed him and gave him the necessary wave length.

And there in his Carmel home, thousands of miles away, Col. Foster listened as he smoked a cigarette to a conversation between the Siam amateur and the operator in Africa!

Uncanny? That was nothing. A few years back, the Kaimiloa, a private yacht was attempting to enter the harbor on Fanning Island in the South Seas. The beacon of the lighthouse, which had charge of the cable lines, had accidentally gone out and the yacht could not make for the harbor. Fred Roebuck, an amateur aboard the craft, managed to get in touch with Ralph Heintz, in San Francisco.

Heintz sent a cable to the lighthouse keeper in Fanning Island telling him the beacon had gone out. In half an hour, Roebuck aboard the Kaimiloa smiled as he saw the beacon go on!

Mr. and Mrs. Babcock of San Francisco are spending several days of their honeymoon in Carmel, stopping at Hotel La Ribera.

Probable Slash in Assessment Roll of Carmel Property Looms

A considerable drop in the assessed valuation of Carmel property loomed this week as the result of an intensive survey of all land now being made by City Assessor Saidee Van Brower.

Exactly how much will be taken from the assessed valuation of Carmel property has not been decided by Miss Van Brower and will be announced later. Before a public statement is made on the proposed drop, Miss Van Brower said she will confer with members of the city council and get their views on the subject.

Property that may drop in the assessed valuation will probably be located throughout the residential section of the village. Reductions may also be made in the business district.

"I am making a careful study of the entire situation," Miss Van Brower explained, "and I am not yet ready to definitely announce what reductions will be made in the assessed valuation of Carmel property."

Whether or not a drop in the assessed valuation of Carmel property will mean a saving to tax payers is the question now that is under discussion not only by Miss Van Brower but also by members of the city council.

A slash in the assessment roll will mean a considerable reduction in the tax returns for the city. Because of so many delinquencies, the council may be forced to increase the tax rate this year, instead of cutting it.

"When I was elected mayor I promised the people of Carmel that the taxes of the city would be cut," Mayor John Catlin said today. "Members of the council agreed with me and we slashed the tax rate 15 cents. I had hoped we might make a similar cut this year, but with so many delinquent property owners and the probable drop in assessed valuation, the matter now demands careful and cautious consideration.

"We have cut the municipal expenditures of Carmel to the marrow and although there might be some more savings that can be made, they are not big enough to influence a reduction in the tax rate."

The city council will not meet as a board of equalization until the second Monday in August, so there are still many months ahead before any definite decision on the tax rate is made.

This week, Miss Van Brower sent out by mail the regular annual assessment list to all property owners in Carmel. On this list, all tax payers are required to make out under oath a statement, specifically setting forth all real and personal property owned.

Barry Flanders in Serious Condition

Barry Flanders, 12-year-old son of Paul Flanders, prominent local realtor and president of the Carmel Land company was in a serious condition this week at a hospital in Monterey.

Specialists called from San Francisco to examine the youngster, said he had only an even chance to recover. The boy who is well known here, has been in ill health for sometime.

IS THAT SO?

By Winsor Josselyn

By Winsor Josselyn

Professor Ernest Scweninger is not with Dr. Einstein. Nor is he with the Piccard brothers. Where is the noted scientist of Mount Carmel Observatory — known to millions through his invention of Big Bender, the telescope that looks around corners?

Lest Carmel go on a still hunt, let this department of the Pine Cone, which has published so many of his priceless monographs on super-human endeavor, state that Dr. Schweninger is alive and well and still in California. Slightly incognito, like the Prince of Wales at his Canadian ranch, but right-o!

Trust Carmel to take the lead. Different—that's us.

A radio contest with an absolutely new slant. A jury of famous judges, all blindfolded and sitting behind a heavy screen, listened to the playing of a radio receiver. They listen to it again, and again. They make notes on prepared blanks. They remove their blindfolds at the end of eighteen playings and compare notes. At this writing they are still comparing notes.

What they are judging is each contestant's ability to play the same radio receiving set. It is a contest to see which of the city's finest radio players can receive a concert best, each trying in turn from a cold start.

It is reported that Mr. Ralph Todd and Mr. Richard Johnson are knotted for first place, but until you read it in the newsprint headlines, don't quote us.

Here's an advertisement that any of the food wholesalers may use gratis, merely by mentioning the Pine Cone.

"Do you remember that bargain bacon we got the other day? Well, it was so rancid that we had to feed it to the baby!"

Sonny called them "policeman dogs." And now, to show that a little child shall lead us, Charlotte tells a "policeman dog" story, certified to by Edwina.

Charlotte has a shepherd pup, one of those big-and-growing-bigger dogs that some day will be saddled and ridden. The neighbors had a police dog, an aloof dog, but very strong on pedigree and training.

The pup got lost. High and low and no pup. Some hounds can find their way home. Others develop early genius for getting lost and staying lost. This one had.

And then, hours later, when the Lost ad was being composed, there came a scuffling on the porch in front of the red front door. And there—there was the neighbor's "policeman dog" tugging by one floppy ear a whimpering shepherd pup.

Gus Englund could have done no more.

We hear that a waitress nearly had a gent customer arrested the other day in a Carmel restaurant. It seems that the customer was very hungry and the waitress very beautiful, and every time she brought things to the table, such as silverware, sweet smiles and so on, he looked at her very hungrily.

Finally, as this bare arm kept passing by him, he gave a flick of the salt and pepper shakers onto it and sank his teeth into it. Considerable tact was needed to calm the young lady of the neat arm.

Aiden Roark who is playing for the movies, the company being at Del Monte, will be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fish beginning next Monday.

Miss Sue Smith from Burlingame was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Pedley are here for the polo season staying at Pebble Beach.

You Can't Hoard Beauty . . .

It's an investment that has to be seen to be appreciated.

When you buy a good permanent wave, every cent you pay for it is reflected in value and satisfaction.

On the other hand, suppose you "save" a dollar or so.

The difference is likely to come out of your appearance.

And when you subtract from beauty, you don't have half as much beauty.

You simply have nothing.

A good permanent wave is a joy long after the price is forgotten. Why not telephone us for an appointment?

Full Program Scheduled at Del Monte Polo Meet

Plenty of thrills marked the opener of the Pacific Coast High Goal Polo Handicap here on Sunday when Los Angeles took the measure of Midwick, 11 to 9. Fans saw the same old Pedley go to work for Midwick and thrilled to his superb riding and stick work.

Pedley uncorked in the fourth period, chalking up two tallies for his outfit. In the fifth chukka he went wild, sweeping the field time after time in remarkable fashion, shoving 4 goals through the posts. But despite his superhuman efforts he was unable to stem the smooth teamwork of Los Indios, with Eric Tyrrell-Martin and Aiden Roark leading the attack.

Wednesday will see the finals of the Pacific Coast High Goal Handicap, with Los Indios and San Mateo mixing it. On Friday will be played the first round of the Del Monte Open championship when San Mateo battles Midwick. Sunday's game will be the Del Monte Open finals with Friday's winners taking on the crack Los Indios four. This game is rated one of the season's stiffest and will draw a large crowd from all sections of the coast.

Next week begins the Del Monte 15-goal tournament when it is expected Santa Barbara will be represented. If the southerners stop off on their way to San Mateo tournament, their probably line-up will be Gerald Dempsey, Alex Bullock, Baron Von Romberg and the veteran Arthur Perkins. Games are called at 2:30 p. m.

Want Free Ride? Carmel Garage Has New Policy

There is a new policy at the Carmel Garage. Louis Levinson owner announces today that he is urging every resident of the peninsula to call his office and tell the salesmen when it will be convenient for him to call and give them a ride in the new Ford V-8 for 1933. Levinson emphasizes that no sales talk will be given, but that he realizes that many people hesitate to ask for a ride in the new car today because they may not be in a position to buy.

"We do not care if the people can buy a car now or not," said Levinson today, "But we want everyone to have a ride, so that whenever they may be in a position to buy a new car, they will be familiar with what advances Ford has made this year."

Such advances as longer wheelbase, new width and many new mechanical advances which make the Ford the most comfortable, and most mechanically advanced car at anything like the new low price which is now in effect.

George Graft Striken, Undergoes Operation

George E. Graft, Sr., retired Scenic Drive financier was taken in a serious condition this week to a hospital in San Jose where he underwent a major operation. Friends of Graft reported him to be critically ill as surgeons were fighting a losing battle to save him.

Graft has been a prominent resident in Carmel for many years and has been the head of many financial companies in various parts of the state.

Services Held Following Death of Local Visitor

Funeral services were held this week at Freeman Mortuary with the Rev. Edward Sharpe officiating, for Fred Ogden Horton, 47, who died while visiting relatives. He had been in Carmel only a short time. Horton is survived by his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Elliot, a sister, Mrs. Perkins, and a son, Frank Horton, all of Carmel.

LIFTED FROM AN AD

Because Elizabeth McClung White said in an advertisement that she ran in last week's PINE CONE what everybody in Carmel should know and appreciate, we are repeating her ad here as an editorial, better said than we could state it. She writes:

"At all times, in all countries, landowners have had a security that others lacked. Financial backing; business credit.

"But at no time has it been quite so obvious that land is the foundation of all wealth. It is protection, credit, means of money-earning.

"Carmel has the great good fortune of standing alone, practically untouched by the world's financial turmoil, and, therefore, it offers an added security to its owners.

"Appraisers have three ways of determining the value of properties. One of them is through the protection offered by neighbors. In that respect all of Carmel is your neighbor. We are protected through Carmel's unique quality, its appeal to retired home-seekers, to the artists of all kinds, to the Nature loving people."

LISTENING IN

Except when war has threatened, or during the early days of the republic's building, at no time in America's history have the people been so actively interested in the doings of its national government at Washington. The newspapers give their first-page headlines to the President and Congress, and every radio is tuned in for the slightest word from the seat of government.

Because we are all vitally and directly interested in the legislation under daily consideration at Washington, we are being restored to a very loyal people, willing and anxious to uphold the executive powers in their effort to restore prosperity to the nation. In the great emergency, political partisanship goes down before national unity, and we become one people. The pessimist holds back his thought, and the man who would overturn our governmental system lowers his voice to a whisper.

So great emergencies, even though they verge upon disaster, have their beneficial uses. These United States of America should be more closely united and governmentally stronger because of this crisis.

SPRING!

Who runs in sandals winged with light
Across the laughing hills?
Whose voice is this
Resounding down the wind
Singing the lark's own song?

She set the slopes aflame with sudden flowers
She bade the leaves stand forth . . .
Swift, swift and beautiful is she!
The grass awoke beneath her heel
And men who crept upon the earth
Looked up and saw the sky!

IN SYBARIS

In Sybaris on slumbrous seas,
In silken Sybaris of yore,
Life drowsed so deep in sun and ease
That labor was illicit lore.

Wan children, touching jewelled toys,
Wore princely purple out of Tyre;
Thru languid tresses girls and boys
Wove threaded gold like spider fire.

In Sybaris, where sleep was queen,
No rebel rooster rocked her throne;
Who whetted pleasure's worn blade keen
Found fortune standing by his stone.

In Sybaris, beneath the shade
Of gorgeous awnings long as wharves,
Lax-lidded ladies vaguely played
With scented dogs and tumbling dwarfs.

When winter dropped a dainty veil,
Folk never stepped beneath the stars;
In saffron mantles over mail
Strode, softly swathed, the men of Mars.

In Sybaris, the somnolent,
A cook was crowned above a king,
And life lay lulled beneath the spent,
Slow sweep of luxury's rich wing.

UNSELFISH VETERANS

The action of the Monterey peninsula post of the American Legion in endorsing President Roosevelt's proposal for a drastic cut in the cost of veteran relief has won it many warm friends. It was a bold and courageous thing to do, for it was not sanctioned by either state or national Legion headquarters, and has not, so far as we are able to discover, been duplicated elsewhere by Legion posts.

It is not too often the case that any group seeks economy in government at its own expense. There is no place where selfishness rules more completely than in the spending of tax monies. Cut and reduce, but somewhere else, please! Yet these men of the American Legion give up hopes of bonuses and benefits, and wire the President at Washington to act for the good of all, rather than for their own interests.

PUT THE BLAME WHERE IT BELONGS

We believe that the greater part of the electorate of Sunset School district is more desirous of achieving harmony in the management of the institution than in the controversies that have affected it during the past several years. Differences between the factions are more fancied than real, or have been made obsolete—as so many other once vital things have been scrapped—by the swiftly changing times.

We believe it is possible to secure such harmony, now and in the future. We know that an honest attempt has been made to do so. Should it fail, the blame must be placed upon those who, for their own reasons, have refused to accept the proffered olive branch.

People Talked About

William J. Crabbe, peninsula manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., sent a copy of the Pine Cone of recent date to Al. C. Joy, publicity manager of the company at San Francisco. Because in that copy of the paper, Joy's criticism of the play of David, at the Forest Theater in 1910, was mentioned in the Newberry Autobiography, Crabbe thought Al Joy might be interested.

From Joy comes this letter to Bill Crabbe: "Thank you for the copy of the Pine Cone with Newberry's Autobiography. I remember well the Forest Theater production of David, which was written by Constance Skinner, a Chicago dramatic critic. The dramatic critic, of course, does not expect words of praise from those he criticises. The Carmel players were amateurs with the somewhat mistaken idea at the time that their allegedly superior cultural attainments made them capable of surpassing professional actors at their own art. For an amateur show this was exceptionally well done. I remember commenting regarding the play itself that it was a simple matter to tell when the playwright's lines jumped from the literal language of the Bible into the language of Constance Skinner.

"I am sorry that Walter Anthony and I were not drunk when the reviews were written, but Oh! what a wonderful heat we acquired afterwards.

"Can you imagine my sins as a dramatic critic bobbing up to slap me after twenty-three years? And I have been trying to lead a respectable life, too!"

For many years H. W. Winston who now lives on Torres street, was the star headliner on the leading theatrical circuits of the world. Winston and his trained diving seals was internationally known and not only toured Europe but exhibited his act before all the important crowned heads.

Winston's barking seals under his direction could do almost anything but engage in a conversation—and even then they talked in their own way to him. One of the features of his act included a large tank of water and a high diving board from which the seals jumped.

Some time ago B.C. (before the crash) Winston saw the collapse of the vaudeville stage and retired. He put his seals in safe keeping, passed Carmel on a tour and liked it so well that within a few days, he had decided to make his home permanently here.

A few days ago, however, he received word from Atlantic City. They wanted him and his trained seals for a special exhibition there this summer. Could he get his seals ready? At first Winston declined the offer. He was retired and wanted to remain here. The more he thought of it, the more he became enthused with the idea and finally accepted.

But where to train his seals again? There was no public or private pool available. Finally he consulted S. F. B. Morse, explaining that he wanted to train a bevy of diving girls together with the seals. Would he let him use the Del Monte pool?

"Bring on the diving girls—but not the seals," Morse told him.

The owners of several other pools on the peninsula were consulted, including the Robles del Rio tank in Carmel Valley. Which pool will be used, Winston has not decided, pending the return of his seals.

With a very general acclaim for President Franklin Roosevelt's vigorous handling of national affairs, nobody in Carmel feels more proud of his President than Judge Charles Clark, lifelong Democrat, and prominent member of California's bar.

Judge Clark has been a consistent Democrat for so many years that few of us can trust to memory as to the presidential candidates who have received his support and vote. In 1872, young Clark cast his first national ballot for Horace Greeley, running against General Ulysses S. Grant, who sought—and secured—a second term in the White House. Every four years since, Clark, now the oldest practicing member of the State Bar Association, has pushed a ballot marked for the Democratic electors, into the box. Five times only in those sixty years of campaigning and voting has he had the opportunity to cheer on election night; twice for Grover Cleveland, twice for Woodrow Wison, and last November for Franklin Roosevelt.

Carmel's oldest Democrat, its most consistent Democrat, and its most prominent Democrat is its most enthusiastic supporter of the new President's energetic management of the present acute situation.

Probably one of the earliest pieces of scrip issued in this country of ours was sent the Pine Cone recently by Calvin Hogle. It bears date of 1786, is for two shillings and sixpence, and was issued by the State of Rhode Island.

On a soft, white paper, about the size of the present dollar bill, there is printed in black "This Bill is equal to Two Shillings and Six Pence in Lawful Silver Money, and shall be received in all Payments within this State, agreeable to an Act passed by the General Assembly of said State, at their May Sessions, holden at the City of Newport, A.D., 1786."

The number, written by hand, is 1042, and the scrip is signed by S. Allen and N. Knight, Committee. All the lower-case s'es are long, and look very like f's. The seal of Rhode Island adorns the scrip.

presents its new
Additional Line of Chevrolet 6's
THE WORLD'S LOWEST PRICED
FULL-SIZE SIX-CYLINDER
ENCLOSED CARS

Another great new line of cars from the leader! Chevrolet introduces, as an addition to its present Master Six, the new Standard Six line. Big, full-size, full-length automobiles. Built to Chevrolet standards of quality . . . performance . . . dependability . . . and economy. And selling at the lowest prices ever placed on six-cylinder enclosed motor cars.

The styling is modern, aerstream styling . . . ultra-smart and up-to-the-minute. The bodies are Fisher wood-and-steel bodies—spacious, tastefully finished—and featuring Fisher No Draft Ventilation. The windshields have safety plate glass. The transmission has an easy, clashless shift and a silent second gear. The engine is a smooth, fast, responsive six. And Chevrolet engineers have made economy an outstanding feature! Engineering tests show that the Standard Six goes more miles on a gallon of gas, more on a filling of oil, than will any other full-size car on the road. As for reliability—remember, it's a Chevrolet.

More than a BETTER way to cook .... a SIMPLER way!

Electric RANGES FOR Easier MEALS
that save you money... that taste better...

NO OTHER COOKING METHOD is so easy. Nothing complicated, nothing difficult to master. One needs but to set two simple automatic devices. Nothing to worry about because these automatic controls of time and temperature are electric controls, as quick and certain in action as the switch you click to turn on your electric lights.

No other cooking method is so certain. In fact, women who cook with an electric range forget a meal is being cooked in the range, so certain are they of its repeated time-after-time successes. Then, too, pots and pans and kitchen walls stay bright and new as though there were no stove in the kitchen.

Yes, the electric range makes actual cash savings on your food bills. Meat roasts, fish or fowl retain juicy tenderness with far less drying out. Actual food shrinkage is less, from 20 to 33 per cent—a fact reason why electric range cooking saves money.

See the 1933 models of electric ranges on display in our office or at your dealer's store. Note the finer finish and thicker insulation on the oven walls and doors of these ranges. You will be surprised at the lower prices on these finer quality products. Ask, too, about the easy purchase terms on these new electric range models.

Tigers Growl, Manzanitas Maul As They Win First Ball Game

By Winsor Josselyn

True to predictions in the Pine Cone, the Tigers and the Manzanita club banged their way to wins—their first wins in four starts. Each captain later assured the writer that it was the direct result of improved national conditions, and said that if such victories could come after three straight, crushing defeats the United States had actually turned The Corner.

What if rain did ruin the second game? And what if the all-conquering Giants were no runs to the Pilots six when their game was called? The Tigers terror is at least loose, and the Manzanita maneaters are on a raw diet.

It was at the Point that the Tigers, pitched and paced by Ammerman, and given examples in old-time hitting by Charlie Van Riper, trampled the sweating Shamrocks down 9 to 2. Only six green-sweater hitters reached first by Ammerman's south-side pitching, and of these short-stop Goodrich got one-third the trips and scored one half the runs.

The next game was between the Country Club and Del Monte, and after two innings a Spring Mist got to game-calling thickness. Czar Staniford and Councillor Orcutt held up each captain's hand indicating a draw and everybody scampered into the clubhouse for tea at the fireplace.

Up at Carmel Woods, on the diamond where fielders can run so fast downhill, the Manzanitas finally clicked and won 12 to 11 from the powerful Polo Club, sometimes known as Old Monterey. This, mind you, in spite of Henderson and Masten, prides of the League, blasting the ball and burning the baselines for five hits and four runs between them. Charles Frost, their Hi-hi teammate, couldn't quite understand this, but pure, applied reason finally convinced him.

Lawyer G. Campbell, of the winners, got three hits in three times up, converted two into runs and generally added to this by excellent fielding. It would be a pleasure to predict an athletic future for him, but, as he's already had one, we just can't.

Holly Smith scored this ding-dong fight; and she keynoted the following game between Giants and Pilots by saying, "The bell saved the big boys," meaning the league-leader Giants. This game gave considerable embarrassment to umpires Sheridan, Gray and Douglass because of its advanced condition before the rain bucketed down. But call it they did, and both wet games will be played at the end of the season (if necessary) to maintain the normal playing schedule.

And now for the official standings:

Community Section

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Giants	3	0	1.000
Pilots	2	1	.667
Shamrocks	1	3	.250
Tigers	1	3	.250

Club Section

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Del Monte	2	1	.667
Country Club	2	1	.667
Polo Club	2	2	.500
Manzanita Club	1	3	.250

Games next week will be. The Point, Pilots and Shamrocks, then the country Club and Manzanita Club. At Carmel Woods: Del Monte and Polo Club, and next the Giants and Tigers. Games at 1:30 and 2:45 and bring the stretcher and the iodine.

This 1933 Abalone League is about half through. Permit an expert to say that in a ball game where an eleven run lead means nothing, even with two out and a girl at bat, as proven by certain impossible games which are burned into Carmel memory, anything can now happen. Homes of trailing-team players need not break up yet, nor need these players trample their caps and throw bats.

A real Abalone simply clamps down all the harder when events start prying him loose, and the present series is going to find new names written large in the hallowed score books.

Police Seek Cook

Carmel police were asked this week to search for Robert Hogal, said to be a cook and wanted by San Francisco authorities on a juvenile violation charge. No trace of him has so far been found.

Again... AT YOUR SERVICE

The bank holidays and limitations imposed by National and State authorities have come to an end and this Bank is OPEN in every office and branch and in every department, for the service of our customers.

During the holiday period this Bank joined with all other banks in complying with the President's proclamation and the regulations imposed thereunder. The expressions of good will and confidence received from our patrons in this time of inconvenience showed there was no lack of understanding.

We believe that the expansion of the basis of credit through the Federal Reserve banks afford-d by the new banking legislation means a greater flexibility of circulation and a consequent strong impetus to business recovery.

We invite the business of individuals, firms and corporations who plan and expect to move forward in a new period of progress and development.
